ABOUT this brochure
Germany is a great place for research.

Become part of a large international research community and benefit from various funding opportunities for international researchers!

We have compiled this brochure to help you find the right programme to finance your research stay as a PhD student, postdoc or established researcher. It contains a selection of the most important funding opportunities and information about how and where you can apply.

The tables at the beginning of our brochure provide an overview of the funding programmes so that you can see which would best match your needs. At the end of the brochure you will find a convenient list of all the funding organisations and their programmes together in one place.

Links give you access to additional information about the programmes or to application websites. Please check there for details of the application procedure.

Bear in mind that there are many more funding opportunities for your research stay, e.g. programmes intended for researchers in specific fields or that only support a small number of individuals. Take a look at the databases at the end of this brochure to learn more.

For additional information, we recommend you contact the respective funding organisation.

We wish you every success!

GERMAN ACADEMIC EXCHANGE SERVICE
The German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD) is the world’s largest funding organisation for the international exchange of students and researchers. Since its foundation the DAAD has supported approx. 2.8 million scholars at home and abroad. The members of this largely publicly-funded association are German higher education institutions and student bodies.
postmaster@daad.de, www.daad.de

DEUTSCHE FORSCHUNGSGEMEINSCHAFT
The Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft (German Research Foundation, DFG) is the central research funding organisation in Germany. With an annual budget of 3.6 billion euros, it finances approx. 32,000 research projects at higher education and public research institutions in Germany. The DFG is an independent, self-governing organisation for science and research. The focus is on funding projects developed by the academic community itself in the area of knowledge-driven research. It serves all branches of science and the humanities. Any postdoctoral researcher at a German research institution can apply to the DFG for funding for his or her research.
info-researchcareers@dfg.de, www.dfg.de
The Fraunhofer-Gesellschaft is one of the world’s leading organisations for applied research. The currently 76 independent institutes of this association cover a wide range of fields, including health and environment, security and protection, communication and knowledge, transport and mobility, energy and resources as well as production and the provision of services. Fraunhofer works mainly on behalf of contractors in industry or the public sector.

Helmholtz is Germany’s largest scientific organisation. Its 18 research centers run some of the most important large-scale research facilities and scientific infrastructures in Europe. Helmholtz focuses on six research fields: energy, earth and environment, health, information, matter, and aeronautics, space and transport. The Helmholtz centers cover the entire spectrum from basic to application-oriented research.

org@helmholtz.de, www.helmholtz.de

The Leibniz Association connects 97 independent research institutions that range in focus from the natural, engineering and environmental sciences to economic, spatial and social sciences and the humanities. Leibniz Institutes address issues of social, economic and ecological relevance and provide advice to policy-makers, academia, business and the public. They conduct knowledge-driven and applied basic research, maintain scientific infrastructure and provide research-based services.

international@leibniz-association.eu, www.leibniz-association.eu

The Max Planck Society for the Advancement of Science is one of Germany’s largest independent, non-profit research organisations. More than 13,000 researchers, postdocs, PhD students, scholarship holders and visiting researchers at 86 Max Planck institutes and research facilities conduct basic research in the natural sciences, life sciences, social sciences and humanities. The focus is on innovative research fields that are especially demanding in terms of funding or time requirements.
